GEN. GRANT is in New York city.

FRANCE has abolished the statute law making imprisonment for debt lawful.

THE President has one sin less than has been laid to his charge—he has not pardoned Toombs.

SUPERIOR new wheat was sold at Fort Wayne, Indiana, on Saturday, at $2,50 per bushel.

BISHOP LARNEY and his party were not captured by Indians, but when last heard from were still on their way to Santa Fe.

YELLOW FEVER at New York and cholera at Philadelphia are reminders that the sanitary condition of this city might be improved.

CHICAGO is losing none of its enterprise. Nearly four million dollars are being expended this season on the erection of new buildings in that city.

THE New Orleans mint, which has been idle since the outbreaking of the rebellion, is about to resume operations. It will commence by coining nickels.

A "CITIZENS PROTECTIVE FUEL COMPANY" has been organized in Chicago, having in view the crushing out of dealers in coal and wood, who have been extorting high prices from consumers.

STEAMBOAT RACING has ceased on the Hudson river. The owners and officers of boats on Western waters should take example from their Eastern neighbors, ere a dreadful accident directs attention to the folly of racing.

THE TELEGRAPH informs us that while Mr. Greeley was very much surprised at his nomination for Minister to Austria, and appreciated the compliment, still he cannot be induced to accept the office should the Senate confirm him.

LOPEZ, who betrayed Maximilian, is a member of the Legion of Honor of France. The councils of the order will at once withdraw the mark of distinction, and order his name erased from their roll on the ground of treachery.

THERE is nothing surprising in the announcement from Mississippi that the people are favorably inclined towards the freedmen. They are fully aware that the power of the blacks at the ballot box cannot be ignored, and that, if educated, they will become more useful citizens.

MR. GREELEY, as any body of sense anticipated he would, peremptorily declined the Austrian mission. The Nebraska republican, who objected to considering the nomination, improved his opportunity to display his narrowness, but did not inflict an injury on the object of his spite.

ON SATURDAY LAST, Maggie Connors, a child three years of age, was killed in Chicago by being run over by a hack. The Coroner's Jury returned a verdict holding the driver of the vehicle responsible for the accident, and he was promptly arrested and lodged in jail on a charge of murder.

THE PRESIDENT threw out a threat in his veto of the Supplemental Reconstruction Act, and many threats to persons about him, as to what he would do in certain contingencies. Sunday, whether he went to church or not, had a sedative effect on his temper. On Monday he expressed astonishment that any one should suppose he meant to do otherwise than enforce any law Congress might pass. If he would only hold to that mind thirty days at a time, the people might credit his asseverations.

THE SAENGERFEST recently held in Philadelphia cost the German societies of that city the snug sum of fifty thousand dollars. The entire expenses of the visiting delegations were paid by them. The banner given by the Saengerfest as the first prize for the best singing was a magnificent affair. It cost two thousand dollars. The society to which it was awarded, the New York Liederkranz, is composed mostly of the sons of wealthy merchants. The reception of these young men of Gotham is described as an affair of surpassing splendor.

IN ITS GOSSIP about writers, the New York Evening Gazette concludes as follows a well written sketch of Horace Greeley:

"Several hundred volumes have been written upon Mr. Greeley's peculiar and slovenly dress, which, like everything else connected with him, has been grossly caricatured. He is neither a Brummel nor a D'Orsay satorially. He wears old fashioned clothes, and puts them on carelessly. His pantaloons sometimes slip up to his boot tops, and his cravat to one side, but he is too busy to notice such trifles. He is always scrupulous neat. His linen, though often limp and crumpled, is immaculately clean, and his garments are rarely ragged or threadbare.

He is devoted to the bath and physical purity is, as nearly as aught can be with him, a passion. His hands are white and soft as an elegant woman's, and his face always looks as fresh and smooth as a child's. How he preserves that perfectly tranquil, almost seraphic expression with all his little controversies and fierce newspaper wars, his frequent complaints and countless annoyances in his fifty-sixth year, is one of the enigmas his closest intimates cannot solve.

"The editor-in-chief of the Tribune, though he owns but ten shares of the stock, is the controller and director of its course, and has been from the first, all stories to the contrary notwithstanding. As much so is this the case, that there have been times when every other editor of the paper has held views directly opposed to his, and yet he has expressed his opinions as independently of theirs as if they were at the bottom of the sea. People are always declaring he will ruin the Tribune and himself by his crotchets; but the public so believe in him in spite of his unquestionable vagaries, that his bare statement to-day carries more weight than that of any man in America.

"The country has entire faith in Horace Greeley's purity and integrity, in his intention and determination to do right as he understands it, and the severest censure we have ever heard of him is that he is too honest for a politician. Defects and even faults no doubt he has, but he will die with more reputation than any journalist of this generation, and merely as a man, one who has struggled all his life to help the lowly and benefit his fellows, he is beyond peradventure booked for lasting fame."

Aerial Navigation.

Are we at last in a fair way to solve the problem of navigating the air successfully? All attempts have hitherto failed, including the recent one of the French aeronaut Nadar; but the enthusiasm of soaring genius is not to be dampened by failure, and a machine is now building in San Francisco, which, in the opinion of a leading journal of that city, holds out fair promise of achieving the long sought result. This machine is called the "Avitor," or "Hermes"—the former being the generic title of the system, and the latter the name of the special machine now building. The journal from which these facts are taken gives nearly two long columns to a minute description of the apparatus, its principles of construction and locomotive direction, but the chief features are these:

The materials are bamboo, iron, steel and shirting muslin coated with a peculiar varnish. The shape is that of a hybrid between a fish and a short-billed, short-necked bird with wings expanded. The dimensions are: length, eighty-eight feet; height, twenty feet; greatest diameter, twenty-one feet. The motive power is steam, applied by a series of propellers of original shape and arrangement. The cubic contents of the gas bag or balloon are fourteen thousand five hundred feet, to be filled up with pure hydrogen.

This novel machine depends on three principles for sustentation in the air. First, the buoyancy of the gas with which it is inflated; secondly, the support derived from its own bulk, increased by its wings expanded on either side; thirdly, the motion of its propellers when set at a suitable angle. To rise to any height it is claimed it needs but to place its propellers at an angle of forty-five degrees or less, depress its movable wings ten or twenty degrees, give its tail a twist, and it will describe a number of spiral circles until it attains the height required. While the gas-holder remains in good order, and the wings remain in position, it cannot fall so rapidly as to endanger the lives of the passengers, even though the engine was to get out of repair.

The steering and directing machinery is arranged much after the manner of a ship's rudder and wheel, combined with an apparatus for swiftly changing the relative position and direction of the wings and propellers.

Such, in brief, are the peculiar features of this experimental air car, and the enterprise is undertaken by a company of sanguine capitalists, styling themselves "The Ærial Steam Navigation Company of San Francisco." Lastly, but far from least, the inventor is also a citizen of San Francisco, by name Frederick Mariott. Whatever be the result of the experiment, it is certainly a highly interesting one in many points of view, and we shall await the intelligence of the trial trip with considerable interest.—N. Y. Evening Post.

American Heirs to English Estates.

Every now and then some great estate in England falls into chancery for want of heirs direct, and there is a great pother among the "collaterals" in this country. The longer the matter has been in litigation, of course, the greater the number of claimants. In such a condition is the great Jennings estate; and still more recently, a discovery has been made of a vast property lying per du for a century past, to which the members of the Brown family are supposed to be heirs. This estate is said to amount to some billions of dollars; but then, think of the infinitisemal division it must undergo to give every member of the Brown family his or her just proportion.

The Browns are almost as numerous—or rather, innumerable—as the Smiths. Fancy an estate left to the Smiths! Suppose that the heirs expectant should decide to go to England in a body to see personally after their claim. It would be an invasion! John Bull would instantly imagine a new and formidable Fenian descent. The fleet carrying these "cousins" would be taken for a modern armada.

As yet, however, the paper from which the notice of this windfall is taken reports that only one hundred representatives of the Brown family have gathered together in Boston to "raise means to prosecute their claim." The raising of the means must be the easiest matter of all. Just let every true Brown subscribe a dime—or even a penny—and the lawyers' fees and expenses will be magnificently provided for. Success to the Browns!—N. Y. Post.

Usefulness of Birds.

It is a well known fact that insects are the favorite food of most kinds of birds, particularly of the smaller kind, and to encourage the increase of the feathered tribe by all possible means would doubtless result in a very considerable advantage to the farmer. Immense numbers of these useful little warblers are annually destroyed through mere wantonness and cruelty, while the farmer is continually harassed with the ravages of worms and bugs in every department of vegetation. It is from small birds we are to look for assistance against the myriads of insects whose depredations are so deleterious to our fields and gardens, and whose numbers, if they are permitted to increase, by the extirpation of our harmless benefactors, the feathered songsters will eat up our substance and destroy the labors of the wearied husbandman, who toils by the sweat of his brow to earn his well-earned productions.

Origin of Honey-Dew.

Formerly it was the opinion of botanists that the sweet coatings of certain leaves of plants was an exudation from the upper surface vessels through the solar or atmospheric influence. Etomologists have discovered the incontrovertible fact that honey-dew is a product of insects, almost too small to be seen by the unassisted eye, called plant lice, belonging to the genus aphis order homoptera. Small ants, like all families of ants, are excessively fond of sweets. They traverse apple-trees and other fruit-bearers infested by lice, discriminating instantly the individuals yielding the saccharine fluid. By gently patting them on their backs with their antennae or feelers, the louse forces out the honey-dew through a minute nipple. It is quickly sucked up, and away the gratified ant goes down the limb and finally to its house near the roots to feed its young. Thousands are thus operating in a sunny morning, milking their dairy. Spare the field ants, then, for they prevent the too great multiplication of the aphis, that would otherwise destroy more trees than they do.

Tunnel Under the Atlantic.

A proposition is on foot to start the gigantic undertaking of running a tunnel under the Atlantic Ocean, in order to connect the New and Old World together by means of submarine railway. The most eminent engineers, both in America and Europe, have been consulted, and they have drawn up a report which is perfectly feasible and only requires time and money to carry out, while the capital, although stupendous, will be forthcoming. So far as calculated approximately, it will require five hundred million English pounds, or two billion five hundred million dollars. Plenty of capitalists are ready to engage in this marvellous undertaking, and as soon as the plans are arranged the money will be advanced. The proposed plans are in themselves the wonder of this skillful age of engineering science.—New York Home Journal.

CHURCH ETIQUETTE.—Let the lady advance one pace beyond the door of the pew she wishes to enter, halt about face and salute. The pew must then be vacated by such gentlemen as are in it, by flank movement. The squad should rise simultaneously when the lady presents herself, and face by the right flank, then deploy into the aisle, the head man facing the lady, and the rest walking to his right and rear, the direction of his halt being changed by a right countermarch, and forming again into line up and down the aisle, still faced by the right flank. The lady, when the coast is clear, completes her salute, and advance to her position in the pew. The gentlemen break off by files from the rear, and resume their places. Great care should be taken, of course, by other parties, not to enter the aisle when this evolution is in progress until it is completed.

—The New Orleans Times protests with great earnestness against the popular idea that New Orleans is sickly. It bases its argument upon official figures. Since the first of January 2,387 persons have died in the city. Of these 728 were children under one year of age. Of the 310 deaths from consumption probably the greater number were cases of persons coming to the city as a last attempt for life. The entire number of fatal cases of fevers was only 146. Considering the fact that the city has been crowded with freedmen, a death-rate of one in nineteen thousand is certainly not very large.

—A lady in Reading, Mass., while conversing with some callers, suddenly turned pale, and sinking into a chair, exclaimed, "Did you hear that gun? It affected me strangely;" and wept inconsolably. Her visitors had heard no report, and it afterward appeared that no gun had been fired at that time on the place. News came, however, that her brother, residing a hundred miles away, was at that very hour fatally shot by the accidental discharge of his fowling piece while hunting in a grove near his house.

GENERAL NEWS.

—A convention of physicians has been called to meet at Quebec next October, to consult upon the state of the medical profession in Canada.

—The bridge across the Mississippi at St. Louis will be the finest in the world, and will cost five million dollars. The work will be begun immediately and will be completed in three years.

—A novel speculation is announced in Buenos Ayres, being nothing less than the opening of a "joint-stock hospital." Subscribers who pay $1 20 in silver as monthly dues, are to be admitted free in case of sickness or accident.

—A brother of Fred. Douglass was found recently in New Orleans by a Northern clergyman and sent North. A letter from Fred. Douglass to the clergyman announces the arrival of his brother at Rochester and their re-union after forty years' separation by slavery.

—Philadelphia is the greatest manufacturing city in the Union. Her operatives number 90,983, and their gross earnings amount annually to $135,969,767. In the number of her employes she is stated to be 16,000 ahead of New York, notwithstanding the larger population of the latter.

—A new telegraph line is to be established between England and her East Indian possessions, and arrangements have been made with Prussia, Russia and Persia, for the route through those countries. The Government of India will arrange for a line through the latter country.

—The danger of excessive muscular exercise is proved by the recent death of a student of Brown University, Mr. Lemuel Grosvenor Perry. A post mortem examination showed that the death was caused by an abcess resulting from inflammation of the abdominal muscles, brought on by excessive exercise at the time of the university match game of ball between the students of Harvard and Brown, some two weeks since, in which he engaged with great ardor. He had been a healthy and vigorous young man, but was taken sick after engaging in the game, and survived only a few days.

—The French Prince Imperial appears to have recovered from his recent severe illness, and even to have acquired vigorous health. He did the honors to the sons of the Sultan on that sovereign's visit to Paris. A correspondent who saw the young prince at play with his young comrades and the gentleman of his suite, says he ran, jumped, and played at ball with as much agility as any boy of his age. It appears that the young prince is an adept at billiards—a game he constantly plays. His agility is so great that he vaults over the billiard table with ease. A slight limp was remarked after a long run, but even that, the remains of his late illness, is scarcely perceptible.

How Prairie Women go to Bed.

Some time since we published a graphic description, from a new popular work, of how a young woman goes to bed, which dainty sketch was matched soon after by some ungracious scribe depicting the manner in which a young man "all of the latest style" performs a similar act. The Fort Harker correspondent of the St. Louis Democrat now supplies a companion picture, as faithful and homely as an "interior" by Teniers, how a newly married young woman on the Kansas prairie went to bed, and how an old woman and the "men folks" followed her example.

We were an unwilling spectator of the scene herein narrated. Far from home, or from any civilized "diggings," we were compelled to seek shelter at a ranche. In this ranche, built of adobes with a mud roof, lived an old gray headed man and his "ole 'oman." It must not be supposed that this old couple were infirm, unable to move about—far from it; they were no less active and ten times more laborious than the young man and the young woman who lived under the same roof. The ranche itself consisted of a single room, eight by twelve. One large stove stood in the centre of the room, and occupying precisely one-half of the ranche were two beds, one for each couple. The old woman, who was undoubtedly the mistress of the ranche, gladly consented to give us lodging. On taking a sweeping look around this humble abode, we doubted her ability to make good her word. Now, the house appeared well supplied with furniture suitable for a ranche. There was a large table; there were large tin pans brimful of milk (for the ranchman had nine cows,) piled one upon another; there was a cupboard plentifully supplied with huge loaves of bread, delicious yellow butter and pitchers of genuine cream, loads of dishes and crockery, knives and forks; there was a chest of drawers, or bureau, well supplied with family linen, and household apparel. Under the table already mentioned were three tame fawns; under the stove was a cat; under the old lady's bed was a huge mastiff; under everybody's feet were about a dozen chickens, chirping, incessantly, while around them moved the mother hen, cackling continually, and before the door, strutting with a lordly mein, was a magnificent Shanghai cock. We have thus far been careful to give a correct idea of the families that lived in the ranche in which the old woman said we should find a lodging. Ten o'clock at night had arrived, and we began to observe symptoms of uneasiness in the old lady. We had been chatting continually from the hour the chickens went to roost overhead among the branches that supported the mud roof—from the time the dog and cat, and the fawns had laid to rest for the night, and it was now time for the family to retire. The young woman had been sitting in a corner, listening attentively to our entertaining stories, but on observing the weariness of her mother-in-law, she rose and retreated towards her bed. After a preliminary hem, and a slight hem, she turned her back to us, and first loosed the apron, the dingy strings of which encircled a form inclined to embonpoint. This young lady then took off her dress, which was made of calico, and perfectly innocent of the wash tub, and dropped it on the top of the apron lying at her feet. Then sitting down on an empty soap box, which stood at the head of the bed, she commenced to take off her shoes. She first lifted one lusty leg over the other, and in a short space of time the shoe fell with a thump on the floor. She then rolled the black woolen stocking off, and exhibited to our view a foot white as snow, though flat and thick. In the same manner she undressed the other leg, and after rubbing her fingers between the toes, she stood up and prepared to take off her surplus clothing, which she performed in a jiffy. At her feet encircling her was a heap of clothing; rolling down the coverlets, after putting a frilled night-cap on, she stepped in the bed, laid her full length, covered herself, took two or three uneasy turns to get a comfortable position, finally turned her back to us and went gracefully and calmly to sleep. It must not be supposed for one instant that we looked at her, oh no! we conversed with the old lady and the two men, but in the meantime we were helplessly compelled to watch the interesting proceedings from a corner of our eye in order to be able to give this accurate account. We now rose and left the room, followed by the two men, with whom we kept up a lively conversation, while the old lady, who had closed the door, disrobed herself. On hearing a voice from the inside asking a question about some cows, we entered again the precincts of the ranche; that was a signal which the old man perfectly understood; the old lady lay night-capped in bed, with her face turned to the brown adobe wall. On the floor near the stove our bed had been made. A solitary lamp lit the apartment. In a short time we were in bed—the old lady asked, "How do you find yourself, Mister Man?" We replied, "Perfectly easy, ma'am." We now watched the men undressing. Standing at their respective beds, they first took off their boots—then coats and vests; at this stage of the proceedings the young man blew the lamp out, and in a second we heard the pantaloons thrown off, a creaking of the beds followed, and the household were at rest. Three men, two women, one dog, one cat, three young antelopes and a dozen chickens in a house 8x10, lighted and ventilated by two small loop-holes. Such, reader, is a Western ranche. Next day, before departing East, the old lady commissioned us to bring her a pair of shoes for herself, (No. 8,) seven yards of domestic and a novel called the "Prairie Flower," which commission we executed to her entire satisfaction.

FIRST EDITION.

MIDNIGHT.

THE SURRATT TRIAL.

Testimony for Defense Closed.

REBUTTING TESTIMONY OFFERED.

[By Telegraph to the Pittsburgh Gazette.]

WASHINGTON, July 22, 1867.

Rev. Chas. Boucher testified and was cross examined at great length—In 1865 I resided in Parish Saint Leboire. I recognize the prisoner at the bar. I saw him in April, 1865, at St. Leboire—about the 22d of April, 1865. He was in company with Mr. Jas. Dutillery, who brought him to my place. Prisoner remained at my house about three months and after that went to Montreal. I saw him from time to time until he went to Europe. I saw him twice a week.

The question was asked if witness knew of prisoner having received any information from the United States in regard to his mother.

Mr. Pierrepont objected.

Mr. Bradley said the defence desired to prove that he was not aware of his mother's condition, and did not flee as a coward.

The Court decided the testimony as inadmissable.

Witness resumed—My place was four or five miles from Montreal. When they came they gave the name of prisoner as Charles Armstrong. I was told he was coming to the country on account of his health, and of being compromised in the American war. I did not then know he was accused of being a conspirator to murder the President. From the time the prisoner reached my house until he left for Europe, prisoner's health was very bad; he had chills and fever twice a week; he remained in bed most of the time, so at times I despaired of his life. I saw it in the papers, afterwards, that John H. Surratt was accused of being a conspirator. When I saw that Surratt was missing, and I coupled that with the secreting of the young man in my custody, I put some questions to the young man and he acknowledged he was John Harrison Surratt. A little after the first of May I believed he was John Surratt. His friends came to see him at the house; people that I did not know came on one occasion to see him; four or five came in the course of the summer; some of the names of persons who came were given to me.

Question—Did any of the St. Albans' raiders come to see him at your house?

Mr. Merrick objected, as it had no relevancy to the case. Sustained.

Witness resumed—One of Surratt's visitors was Father La Pierre; others came with Mr. La Pierre; a man named Lackey came with La Pierre; he stayed at a private house two or three days, and several times came to my house to see Surratt. They came on a hunting expedition, and Surratt went to a bush hunting with them. I sometimes went hunting with them; Surratt went out one evening with James Artillery to take a ride. He sometimes walked out in the evening, and in the day time he went to church in his common dress. He did not go to church during service; he was in the church from a quarter to half an hour. I did not communicate to any one that the man staying with me was Surratt; said I could not speak of it to any man. My house was visited by my parishioners every day; my parishioners sometimes saw him. I did not tell my parishioners I was concealing Surratt. When I found the person at my house was Surratt, I did not report him to the authorities of the United States, because I believed him innocent.

Witness testified McMillan's reputation for truth and veracity was bad.

Before closing the defense, Mr. Merrick asked the ruling of Court on the motion before made, to strike out certain testimony.

The Court said they would first go through with all the testimony.

After recess, several witnesses were examined for the prosecution, as to the movements of trains between Elmira and Williamsport, in April 14th, 1865. It appeared it was at the time necessary to save a ferry at Williamsport.

Maurice Drohan testified—In April, 1865 I ran the ferry at Williamsport; don't know anything about a special train on April 14th; I remember a man coming to me; I was on the Williamsport side, coiling up my rope, and the man came and asked me to ferry him across. I said I would, if he would pay; he said he would pay; the man had on a peculiar coat that attracted my attention; the man said he wanted to make the other side; he asked me to take him over, and I said the charge would be fifty cents, and in the middle of the river I stopped and collected the fare; he gave me a dollar; I had no change, and he allowed me to keep the dollar. Witness identified the prisoner as the man he ferried across on the day referred to.

Detective Bigley testified that he went with Holohan, McDevitt, Clarvoe and Weichmann to Montreal in chase of Surratt. Holohan told witness at Montreal that he lost a handkerchief at St. Albans; did not see Holohan lie down on the settee at Burlington; would have seen him if he had; I doubt whether we ever went in the depot; there was a track outside, and we waited there, I think, for the train; think we did not wait more than five or ten minutes at the depot. The lost handkerchief was mentioned in Montreal either by Mr. Potter, American Consul, or his Secretary; some one said a handkerchief had been found at St. Albans by one of Baker's detectives, and Holohan said that was the handkerchief he lost at St. Albans. The Consul or his Secretary said the handkerchief was found by one of Baker's detectives; never heard until this trial commenced that the handkerchief was found at Burlington and given to one of Baker's detectives. Holohan did not say how he lost the handkerchief, and I remarked at the time that it was a strange thing that detectives should be following us.

Maj. A. J. Richards, Superintendent of Police, was sworn and asked if Holohan made an official report to him about the handkerchief.

Objection by the defense. Sustained by the Court.

Adjourned until to-morrow.

Mr. Pierrepont announced the testimony in rebuttal would certainly close in two days.

FROM MEXICO.

Escobedo's Denunciation of Foreigners—His Motto, "Death to All Strangers"—No Danger from Yankees as Long as the South is Kept Out of the Union—Gen. Marquez Not Yet Discovered—More Executions at Queretaro—Santa Anna Still Alive—his Execution Expected.

[By Telegraph to the Pittsburgh Gazette.]

NEW ORLEANS, July 22.—Galveston papers contain one week's later Mexican news.

The Brownsville Ranchero doubts the report of an army of observation, numbering 15,000 men, under Gen. Carline, being placed on the Rio Grande.

The Ranchero publishes a letter, stated to be written by Escobedo to Gen. Gomez, directing the latter by every means in his power to make the country entirely Mexican. Escobedo says as all the property in the hands of foreigners in Mexico has been acquired by Mexican misfortunes, the Mexican people should now take possession of it and have power to hunt them from the country. He says: "My motto is, Death to all Strangers." He adds that "there is no danger of the Yankees interfering with us as long as the Southern States are kept out of the Union; besides, the black men would side with us, and at any time pronounce against the whites. Before we get through with the foreigners, the Yankees will think we are in earnest, and the time will come when their own notables will be begging for their heads, instead of begging for the heads of Austrians."

Up to the 13th Generals Marquez and O'Haraton had not been found. Some of their adherents, it is supposed, have secreted them in the house of the British Minister. Strict search will be made for them, and as soon as discovered they will be shot.

Gen. Diaz has ordered the capture of all foreign representatives who do not recognize the Liberal government.

Twelve more Generals, who had served under Maximilian, had been shot at Queretaro, among others Otero and Castillo. Four Imperial Colonels were also shot.

Seven hundred Austrian prisoners have been sent to Puebla.

President Juarez had issued an order for the convocation of the Liberal Congress, to elect a President.

Ortega is in prison at Monterey.

Santa Anna is still alive at Campeachy, but his captors are awaiting instructions from the Liberal Government. The feeling there is that he will undoubtedly be shot. Advices from Matamoras are to the same effect.

The Prussian Consul at Vera Cruz is conducting negotiations to obtain the release of the Austrian prisoners.

Captain Freeman, of the revenue cutter Wilderness, which conveyed Madame Juarez and party to Vera Cruz, reports the Liberals extremely independent, defiant and saucy.

Bishop Larney and Party Safe.

[By Telegraph to the Pittsburgh Gazette.]

ST. LOUIS, July 22.—A telegram from Gen. A. J. Smith, dated Fort Harker, July 20th, to Gen. Sherman's headquarters here, states that Bishop Larney and his party, who were recently reported attacked by the Indians, near Fort Larned, and the men killed and the women taken captives, passed Fort Dodge, fifty-five miles west of Fort Larned, in company with a large train, on the 16th instant. The reported massacre must therefore be false.

Council with the Crow Indians.

NEW YORK, July 22.—The Herald's Fort Phil Kearney special says: Judge Kinney, of the special Indian Commission, has just concluded a highly satisfactory council with eighteen hundred Crow Indians at this place. [By Telegraph to the Pittsburgh Gazette.]

MINNEAPOLIS, MINN., July 22.—The great freshet exceeds any other since 1850. The volume of water is terrific. The wreck of the old North Minneapolis bridge has been swept away. One span is ashore. THE TENNESSEE FREEDMEN.

Gen. Carter's report of the operations of the Freedmen's Bureau, in Tennessee, for June, states the character of the freedmen for industry has stood high. The crops were abundant, probably the largest ever raised in the State. Notwithstanding this there has been a disposition on the part of all classes of destitute people to look to the Bureau for support, and he suggests the propriety of discontinuing all issues of rations except to hospitals and orphan asylums. With reference to the temperance cause, which has been introduced among the freedmen, the Assistant Commissioner reports that generally the colored people do not sign the pledge, by reason of indifference, consisting in the fact that the colored preachers are drinking men.

A Question of Veracity.

There has been a question of veracity raised between the talented editor of the Leader and Daniel O'Neill of the Dispatch, regarding the postponement of the case of libel preferred by the latter against John W. Pittock, arising out of the publication of the alleged adultery of Daniel O'Neill with the wife of his brother-in-law, James B. O'Neill. Mr. Pittock alleges that the trial was postponed against his wish, and O'Neill says the same thing concerning himself. Where both parties are so well known, the public will not be long in determining which tells the truth. The editor of the Leader is a gentleman of probity and truth, and the harsh names applied to him by Daniel O'Neill will amount to nothing.

Distressing Affair.

Some six weeks or two months since, Peter Botto, a resident of Memphis, Tenn., left his home with the intention of visiting Europe, and had proceeded on his journey to New York, where he took to drinking, and kept it up until he was finally sent to Blackwell's Island for sixty days on a charge of vagrancy. He had been there for some time before his friends knew anything of his whereabouts, but as soon as his situation was made known to them, they dispatched Mr. J. A. Signaigo to New York to get him home. Mr Botto was in jail when Mr. S. arrived, and had been sick for several days, which had so weakened him that he was unable to travel. He was taken out of the "tombs" by Mr. S. and taken to a hotel, where he remained until Sunday morning, when the two started for Memphis. When the train arrived at Harrisburg the sick man appeared to be getting better, and said that he felt a great deal stronger. Mr. S. left him for a few moments just before the train arrived at Altoona, and when he returned found him dead sitting in the seat in the same position he had left him. Mr. W. H. Devore, Undertaker, was telegraphed, and on the arrival of the train at two o'clock P. M. yesterday, took the body in charge, embalmed it, and forwarded it at 2 A. M. this morning.

Mr. Signaigo, formerly editor of the Memphis Appeal, who had the body in charge, represents Mr. B. as having been in affluent circumstances. When he left home he had drafts in his possession for a large amount of money, all of which have been recovered except about four hundred dollars, which it is probable he drew and squandered, as he had but little cash with him. His residence was at the corner of Main and Poplar streets, Memphis.

Serious Accident—Whole Family Injured.

Mr. S. J. Young, of this city, accompanied by his wife and two children, had been spending Sunday with Mr. Seiferth, who resides in McClure township, and shortly after dark started home by way of Manchester, in a one horse carriage. While descending the hill leading to Manchester, the horse jumped to one side, and when Mr. Young attempted to turn the animal to the middle of the road, the buggy was overturned and the occupants thrown violently to the ground. The vehicle fell upon them and they were in such a position as to be unable to help themselves. The accident happened in the immediate vicinity of the residences of Mr. Graff and Mr. Bennet, both of whom went to the assistance of the injured persons immediately. The members of Mr. Bennett's family were soon on the ground, and while Dr. Cummins, of Manchester, was being summoned, they used every means to relieve the sufferings of Mr. Young and his family. When the physician arrived, it was found that Mr. Young had sustained several severe cuts and bruises about the head and face, and had several teeth knocked out. Mrs. Young's injuries were also very severe, both wrists being sprained, the shoulder bone dislocated, besides severe bruises about the body. The children were considerably injured, one of them quite severely. After having their injuries attended to, a carriage was procured and the family brought to their residence, No. 479 Penn street. The injuries of Mrs. Young were at first thought to be of a serious character, but we are informed that she is much better, and that Mr. Young and the children are also recovering.

Merit Rewarded.

What shouts of derisive laughter are resounding through the country at the attempts of a certain piano firm that didn't get the first honors at the Paris Exposition, to cover up their defeat, and how the good sense of the American people is ridiculing their endeavors to detract from the great honor conferred on the Chickering pianos, by its representative at the Exposition being decorated with the Cross of the Legion of Honor. If the Emperor Napoleon had, of his own accord, given the cross to Mr. Chickering, he would only have proven himself a good judge of pianos, as well as of cannon and horses; but he did not do it of his own accord, though he no doubt wanted to. He was recommended to confer it on Mr. Chickering by the Imperial Commissioners of the Exhibition, who had nothing in their power to give that would fully reward the surpassing excellence of the Chickering Pianos. Their gold medals were quite good enough for some exhibitors of Pianos, as Broadwood, of London; Streicher, of Vienna, and Steinways, of New York; but for Chickering & Sons' Pianos some transcendent recognition was required, and the Imperial Commission deemed Mr. Chickering worthy of the highest honor that France could bestow, and in accordance with their request the Emperor, as head of the Legion of Honor, decorated the Chickering with its cross. How valuable the proclamation of a body of musical and scientific men, such as compose the Imperial Commission, who by the conferring of the Gold Medal on Chickering & Sons, and the cross of the Legion of Honor, singled out that famous firm as the foremost in the world, and the only one at the Exhibition worthy to be so honored by a body of men thoroughly conversant with the subject in hand.

Executive Committee Meeting.

The County Union Republican Executive Committee held a meeting at the office of the chairman, Jacob H. Miller, Esq., Fifth street, on Monday, for the purpose of organization and attending to other matters of a political nature. Mr. Samuel Palmer, of Allegheny City, was chosen Vice President, and Messrs. N. P. Reed and H. C. Mackrell, as Secretaries.

On motion, the following gentlemen were added to the Committee:

W. A. Herron, N. W. Ogden,
Wm. Neeb, T. B. Hamilton,
J. C. Wainwright, C. W. Batchelor,
W. C. Moreland, B. F. Lucas,
N. W. Shaffer, Alex. Hilands,
Thos. C. Dickson, R. B. Parkinson.

The following Finance Committee was appointed:

George H. Holtzman, Captain James Miller, Thomas C. Dickson, N. P. Reed, W. A. Herron, George Finley, W. N. Ogden, Col. A. Hilands.

On motion, a call was ordered to be issued for the holding of primary elections for delegates in the different districts, on the last Saturday in August, the 31st, to meet in Convention on the Tuesday following, September 3d, to nominate candidates for Senator and Assemblymen. The call is published elsewhere in to-day's GAZETTE.

Burglarious.

On Saturday night or Sunday morning, the saddle store of Ernest Fry, No. 5 Fifth street, was forcibly entered. The thieves ransacked the premises, but without seemingly finding anything of value to them, as the proprietor found no goods missing.

The boarding house of Mrs. Sproul, in the Diamond, Allegheny city, was also entered during Saturday night, the burglars carrying off with them two watches and several small amounts of money, taken from the clothing of boarders.

About one o'clock Sunday morning the wife of the proprietor of the Rowley House, in the Diamond, was aroused by a noise in her sleeping apartment, which is up stairs. Becoming thoroughly awake she discovered a man in her room, hatless and bootless, leisurely examining the contents of her trunk. A piercing shriek from the lady brought the rascal to his feet, and another of the same kind sent him rapidly down stairs, and away. A succession of screams brought assistance, when it was discovered that the villain had entered the house by means of a false key, and in the same manner he opened the trunk. In his haste to depart left a key in the trunk, attached to which by a ring were two others. He carried a dress from the trunk as far as a dining room table down stairs, where he left it.

H. M. Long & Co.

The attention of our readers is directed to the advertisement of Messrs. H. M. Long & Co., which appears in another column. These gentlemen succeed the Wooldridge Oil Refining Company, and are eminently worthy of the confidence and patronage of the community at large. They are the manufacturers of pure white burning oil of the well known brand "Lucifer," and are prepared to supply orders for any quantity. We feel that it is useless commending this firm, which is composed of some of our staunchest business men, but we bespeak for them a large and liberal share of the public patronage.

Col. Foster, of the Dispatch, is writing letters home to his journal from the old Continent. He seems to discard Harper's Hand Book, preferring to get up original matter, which will be a decidedly new feature in that sheet.

Police Items.

LARCENY.

L. E. Byck made information before Alderman Taylor, against Morris Green, a colored man, charging him with larceny. Lealleges that Green stole a pair of shoes from his dwelling, valued at fourteen dollars. A warrant was issued for the arrest of Green.

N. P. Fetterman, Jr., appeared before Alderman McMasters and made information against Miss "Cecilia," charging her with having purloined from his father's house a silk dress and several other articles of lady's wearing apparel, to the value of seventy-five dollars. The defendant was employed at the house of Mr. Fetterman as a servant, and only gave her name as Miss "Cecilia," but from the description, it is thought by the police that she is an old offender, and they are on the alert. A warrant was issued.

John Hafferty made information before Alderman Donaldson against Mary Hall for surety of the peace, and Mary, in default of bail, was committed. The facts in this case are as follows: The defendant, Mary Hall, made information against Hafferty about a year ago, charging him with fornication and bastardy, which was amicably adjusted, Hafferty paying the sum of $250. Since that time he has been held in bonds to the amount of one thousand dollars for the support of the child. Mary, however, was not satisfied with this, and thinking she had a good thing on John, "went for him;" but it appears she has followed the matter too far. She raised quite a "rumpus" when the Alderman gave her in charge of the constable, and flatly refused to go to jail. Quite a crowd was collected around her by her loud and emphatic manner.

AFFILIATION.

Jenny F. Hunter made information before Alderman McMasters, against Michael Maloy, charging him with fornication and bastardy. The defendant was arrested and held for a hearing.

ABUSING A HORSE.

Owen Fitzsimons made information against James McGrady and Albert Smith, before Alderman McMasters, charging them with abusing a horse and breaking a buggy contrary to the Act of Assembly made and provided. Deponent keeps a livery stable on Irwin street, and he alleges that defendants hired a horse and buggy from him on Saturday, that they abused the horse by driving him in a reckless manner, and broke the buggy. A warrant was issued for the arrest of the defendants.

COMMITTED FOR COURT.

Charles Pohl and John Cline, who were arrested and committed for a hearing, charged with committing the Irvin's Station robbery, had a hearing to-day, when they plead guilty to the charge, and were committed for Court on two charges. There appears to have been a family living in the house in which the jewelry store was situated, and consequently an information for burglary was lodged against the parties, on which they were committed as well as upon a charge of larceny.

ASSAULT AND BATTERY CASES.

The following cases were before Alderman Lynch.

Catharine McDevitt made information against Mary Ann Smith and Mrs. Callian, charging them with assault and battery. The fight occurred on the 4th inst., and the prosecutrix alleges that she was severely beaten. The defendants were arrested and held for a hearing.

Frank McDevitt lodged a complaint against Thomas Smith and C. Callian, for assault and battery, alleged to have been committed on the 4th inst. The defendants were held in the sum of three hundred dollars each for a hearing, in default of which Callian was committed.

The parties to both these cases reside in Hard-scrabble, and from what we could learn they had a regular free fight on the evening of the Fourth, in which Frank McDevitt was so badly beaten as to be unable to leave his bed until a few days since.

Thomas Healy made two informations against Hugh Ekin, charging him with aggravated assault and battery and surety of the peace. He alleges that the defendant attacked him with a hammer, and seized hold of his arm in his own house. The parties reside in Pipetown. Hugh was arrested by officer Sam Wilmot, and after a hearing, held in two hundred dollars for his appearance at Court.

MALICIOUS MISCHIEF.

Hugh M'Hugh made information against Rosanna M'Hugh, his wife, charging her with malicious mischief. The parties, although man and wife, reside in different localities, Rosanna residing in Allegheny, while Hugh holds forth in Manchester. Hugh had a fine sow, which had a fine litter of pigs, and it appears that the wife gave the sow a dose of poison, which killed the pigs, and the sow, and nothing more, she is arrested and held to bail for a hearing.

FRAUDULENT TRANSACTION.

Fred. Dirmbardt, of Ross township, appeared before Alderman Mullen, of Allegheny, and made information against Wm. Kelley, a Butler county farmer, charging him with willfully defrauding him. He alleges that he bought two lambs of the Butler county man, for which he was to pay eight dollars, three dollars of which was paid at the time the contract was made, and the remaining five was to be paid when the lambs were delivered. He says that Kelley sold the lambs to another party and refuses to refund to him the three dollars he paid when the compact was made. A warrant was issued for the arrest of Kelley.

FALSE PRETENCE.

Andresen Chrishouse made information before Alderman Mullin against Nicholas Hart, charging him with obtaining money under false pretences. The prosecutor is a building contractor, and he alleges that the defendant collected money from several parties in Allegheny, representing that he was employed by the prosecutor, which he says is false, and further alleges that he does not know the defendant. Perhaps he does not, but it is quite evident that the defendant knows him. This is certainly a clear case of obtaining money under false pretence, and the defendant was held for a hearing.

Merit Rewarded.

The New York Independent says: The Weed Sewing Machine Company sent some plain machines, taken indiscriminately from their stock, and made a very modest display at the Paris Exhibition, having no foreign agencies through which to herald great claims for a Prize. But their unassuming position and modest display did not prevent the jury from examining their claims to popular favor, and eventually crowning them with one of the highest medals. Under all the circumstances, it is no exaggeration to say that the Weed Sewing Machines have won the highest honors at the World's Exhibition in Paris. Call and examine them at No. 112 Grant street.

Horse Stolen.—A horse was stolen last night between eight and nine o'clock, from a hitching post near the Grant House, Federal street, Allegheny. The horse belonged to Mr George W. McIntire, who resides in the country. He is a bay, with a black mane and tail, and is six years old. Mr. McIntire came to Allegheny in the evening, and expecting to return in a short time, did not have his horse put in a stable, but hitched him to a post near the Grant House, and went across the street. On returning, he found that his horse had been taken.

OUR CITIES.

Consolidation is the question now with a large part of our citizens. They speak of it as if their prosperity and success depended solely on it. They may be united or separate. There are other things as essential to their prosperity as union—other things without which even with union our rank among cities will be low.

The intelligence and high moral character of our people will conduce far more to our material prosperity and our elevation in the scale of cities than anything else. With these we shall have industry, thrift and intelligent labor producing improvements and inventions of the highest value. Without these the very foundations of all prosperity will be stopped and progress soon will cease. It is perhaps too much to say that our common schools are not of so high an order as they should be, and that the disadvantages under which our High School is laboring are not creditable to our intelligence and liberality. And then what are we doing and what have we been doing these many years for higher education. Chicago is surrounding herself with institutions of learning. She has not one merely, but many colleges, and her citizens are giving liberally to provide them with every advantage. But recently four of her citizens gave to one of her colleges $110,000. She can boast of the largest refractory telescope in the world, in the hands of an astronomer of high reputation. St. Louis has given to one of her colleges $600,000. If we turn to the East we are astonished at the sums contributed. Single individuals have given $500,000 to endow institutions. At the recent commencement of old Harvard, Prof. Hill announced that $470,000 had been received by bequests and donations, the past year, the largest sum ever given in any one year to that excellent institution. Other colleges have received their hundreds of thousands. We often hear men speak with scorn of New England. Its influence in the school, college, on the bench, in the pulpit, and in the Senate Chamber, they cannot endure. But they must endure it so long as New England retains her relative position in education. "Knowledge is power," and will ever be. We must educate if we would hold a high position in influence and prosperity. What have we done in the past? How meagre our offering! Many a man in our eastern and western cities has given more, at a single time, to the cause of education, than all of our citizens have given to our University in half a century. Is it not time for our men of influence and means to move in this matter. Five hundred thousand dollars are asked for to put this University where it ought to have been years ago. The wealth is here; the disposition only is wanted. Move yourselves, or cease to complain of New England for doing what you refuse to do—your duty.

THE CANVASS.

The Republican State Committee have perfected their organization, preparatory to the political campaign, and as yet have done nothing else, we apprehend. In most of the counties the nominations have not been made; and except in those districts in which the local offices are of considerable value and importance, there is very little stir. This is natural. So far as relates to the State ticket the contest is not calculated to inspire profound feeling. A Governor is not to be elected. Members of Congress are not to be chosen. Only a seat on the Supreme Bench is to be filled. This is, indeed, a matter of grave consequence to the people, but it does not arouse political sympathies as absolutely as does the filling of places of another sort.

The present indications are that the canvass will prove languid, on both sides, until after the summer heats shall have passed away. Then there will be a quickening of political interest, and a sharp and decisive campaign will be apt to follow.

On the part of Republicans the nomination of Mr. WILLIAMS for Supreme Judge meets with unanimous and unqualified approbation. That could not be otherwise. In point of personal character and professional attainments he embodies all that could be desired in a candidate. This is freely conceded by all reputable Democratic journals. A few of the other sort began by coarse and brutal vituperation of him, as is their wont, but they encountered an indignant public opinion that quickly compelled them to desist.

On the Republican side, so far, nothing has been uttered or printed against either the character, the integrity, or the abilities of Mr. SHARSWOOD. On each of these points, all has been cheerfully conceded, that his most sensitive personal friends could expect or demand. In one particular his official conduct has been subjected to animadversion, and very properly. Some of his political supporters have complained of this, and even gone so far as to allege he was assailed personally. Nothing can be plainer than that the decisions of a magistrate may properly be reviewed both by the press and the people. Such review is not only a privilege but a duty, whenever a magistrate comes up for re-election or promotion to a higher sphere. Judicial decisions are public property. They touch not only the parties litigant in the particular cases, but the rights and interests of every citizen. The experience of this country is that temples of justice are not purer than chambers of legislation; while the observation of all mankind bears testimony that Courts, less responsible than any other department of public administration, have been the citadels of usurpations, and have constantly proved the most formidable allies or facile instruments of oppression and injustice.

But, the object we had specially in view was to urge that in a canvass like the present, it will not do to put too much dependence upon the State Committee. Such bodies never seem to be specially efficient except in times of preternatural ferment among the people; and then the real work is performed by the local organizations or by individuals. Such must pre-eminently be the fact in a canvass like this, upon which the Republicans of Pennsylvania are now entering. Almost everything depends upon the promptness, fidelity and skill of the county, city and township committees. We trust these bodies feel their responsibility, and will act up thereto.

THE PROSPECTS.

Eighteen months ago a large section of the republican press urged a speedy return to specie payments, as the most satisfactory solution of the financial embarrassments then existing. This policy was resisted by most business men, not so much in consequence of the dictates of their judgments as from the inspiration of their fears. They had experienced the benefit of selling upon a constantly rising market for a number of years, and had, in appearance, at least made extraordinary gains. They comprehended that the descent from 2.80, as the market price for gold, down to 1.00, was exactly as great as the ascent from 1.00 up to 2.80; and that in getting down there was a strong probability the losses, by reason of selling on a falling market, would equal the gains made in going up. But a hallucination prevailed that it was possible to make the descending plane so long that no loss would be encountered on goods bought at 2.80, and ultimately sold at 1.00. We happened not to be of the number who saw how this was to be accomplished.

A year and a half has elapsed, and the process of getting down to the solid base of specie so gradually as not to know it, has been going on. More loss has already actually been experienced than would have been suffered had specie bottom been reached fifteen months ago, as it might have been; and the end is not yet. The chances appear rather to be that the period of declining prices will continue for a year; perhaps for years. This involves not only the loss apparent between 2.80 and 1.00, but the unnecessary loss of years of valuable time, which would have been saved by the other process.

Fortunately the harvests this season are abundant. Whatever deficiencies may be observable in spots, are amply compensated by the general opulence. Here is a sure basis for prosperity. The cost of provisions has already fallen off materially, and will go still lower. This will help adjust many perplexities. The railroads will have as full freights as they can carry. Wages in all departments of industry will naturally get accommodated to the price of flour and other staple family supplies. This movement will be the more absolute if the current reports of good harvests in Europe shall be confirmed.

Nor will this falling away in the prices of agricultural produce prove so prejudicial to the farming population as upon superficial observation would appear. In the absence of special causes, as the late war, to enhance or lessen prices, it may be safely assumed that the income of farmers is not materially disturbed by ordinary fluctuations in the amount of crops. If, in any section, crops utterly fail, the farmers are seriously pinched. But if the difference is between small crops and full ones, and this difference is pretty uniform, the farmers will realize as much money in the one case as in the other. If crops are short, prices are high; if full, prices are low. It has often happened under our observation that when the hay crop averaged only three quarters of a ton to the acre, the farmers obtained more money from their meadows than when the yield was two and a half tons. The rule holds good all round.

Besides, the farmers have had the inside of the track for a number of years. It is now the turn of dwellers in towns. Flour at fifteen to twenty dollars a barrel, and other articles of food in proportion, brought the gaunt wolf to many a widow's and laborer's door. There ought to be no complaint if these enjoy once again the luxury of cheap food.

FARM, GARDEN AND HOUSEHOLD.

Various Hints for the Season.

1. As the pastures become short and dry, your stock will betray symptoms of uneasiness. Some will pine, some will be ill-tempered, and some will become unruly. The way to remedy this is to increase the supply of food. This may be effected indirectly by selling off a part of your stock; it may be effected directly by putting the animals into fresh pasture, or by feeding extra food, in vegetables, grain or meal, or by all these means combined. There will be a great amount of food for stock this fall. This may tempt many to try to keep too much stock. Be on your guard against this.

2. Be very careful to preserve specimens of all your ripening fruits, especially from young trees. We know some persons who have had orchards bearing several years, and who, after all, have discovered this year, for the first time, how valuable some kinds of their fruit were. A little attention to this matter now will enable you to add to your number of fruit trees judiciously.

3. Repair all leaky places in roofs; nail up all open spots in the sides of barns and sheds and provide good shelter for stock, before the heavy autumn storms occur.

4. The autumn is the best time for painting all wood that needs this protection. Paint, therefore, soon, all fences, posts, gates, sheds and buildings that need painting, whether new or old.

5. A few days since we saw a hay rack, several plows, a harrow, a cart, some ox yokes and a one horse wagon lying out of doors. They were baking in the sun, and cracking open with exposure. Near by them was plenty of room to keep them all under good shelter. We won't tell the man's name, but we hope that when he reads this, he, and all others who have done the same thing, will put all such implements under cover.

6. Of weeds we have had an extra number and a most luxuriant growth during the present year. Some weeks ago we solicited attention to this fact, and to the necessity growing out of it for extra exertions to subdue them and prevent them from going to seed. As a large proportion of farmers are very careless in regard to the eradication of weeds, and as such carelessness will be more productive of mischief this year than it is usually, it may not be a work of supererogation to call attention to the subject once more. Though now late, it is not yet too late to mow down or pull up these pests, and to place them in piles either for burning or for fermentation. Much better will it be, at all events, to get rid of all weed seeds not yet scattered by winds, birds, &c., even at this late period, than to give them any additional opportunity for dissemination. Thousands of these seeds may yet be destroyed in gardens and fields. Let the standing weed be cut down and collected into piles, so as to be burned or rotted, for which latter purpose the corners of fences, where there are any worm fences still in existence, or other waste places will be the most appropriate. Sprinkle over the heap some ashes or lime, if convenient to the house, and cover with a few sods. If not next year, then at least the year after, these rotted weeds will be of some use as manure, and all danger from the seeds either entirely or very nearly at an end.—Cincinnati Enquirer.

Calves "Brought Up by Hand."

A member of the Circencester Farmers' Club makes a specialty of rearing calves, and has read a paper before that Association describing his experience. He has been in the habit of procuring the calves dropped on the farm of a neighbor, and with only four cows of his own, raised fifty calves in 1864, fifty five in 1865, and, in 1866, fifty five were weaned, but three have been lost by mismanagement. He takes the calves from about the first of March, when ten days old, paying thirty shillings each for them.

They have for the first three or four days two or three quarts of milk at a meal; then gradually some food in the shape of gruel is added, and, by degrees, water is substituted for milk. Mixing oilcake with gruel is the great secret of success. I use half oil cake, the best I can buy. Take a large bucket, capable of holding six gallons, put into it two gallons of scalding water; then add seven pounds of linseed cake, finely ground, which is obtained by collecting the dust that falls through the screen of the crusher, and passing it through one of Turner's mills. Well, stir the oilcake and water together, and add two gallons of hay tea.

The hay tea is made by pouring scalding water in the morning on good sweet hay, in a tub, the tea standing covered till night, and having seven pounds of meal (wheat, barley and beans mixed) stirred into a tubfull before use. The same hay will bear a second infusion during the night, for next morning. Two quarts per head, with an equal amount of cold water, is enough for a feed.

The old plan of letting them suck through the cowman's fingers is preferred, and, as soon as they can eat, crushed corn, sweet hay, and roots are placed within reach; vetches as soon as ready, and mangolds, of which a supply should always be stored if practicable. The calves live in a cool, well ventilated house, are kept very clean and quiet, supplied with fresh water daily, and the manure frequently removed.

Spare the Trees.

There is yet all over the country, and particularly in the West, except upon the prairies, where necessity has been a teacher, too great a disposition to cut down trees—fruit trees as well as forest trees—with too much recklessness and disregard to future profit, comfort or elegance. Let every farmer resolve forthwith, if he has not already done so, to commence saving all the trees that are of any value, that he can, by a fair calculation, estimate to be worth more standing and growing than if cut down. Let this apply to trees in the forest, as well as forest or fruit trees along the line of his fences. As a general rule, it is better to have fruit trees in an orchard, where they can be watched, and where depredations are not so likely to be made, if the farm be located near a city or village; but when they have attained a size too great for convenient removal, they may often advantageously be left to stand in the field, especially if along a fence where the shade is not so much of an objection. It will not only be profitable to allow the trees to stand, but where time can be found, it will pay well to transplant trees along the fences. A very valuable tree for this purpose is the locust, as when it attains sufficient size, it makes excellent posts for fences, being almost as durable when standing in the ground as red cedar.

By a general, earnest effort on the part of farmers to preserve all that is valuable among their trees, much of the evil that has been done by the thoughtless, slashing and cutting of some of our pioneer settlers may be, in a degree, atoned for. Some of the formerly magnificent oak, chestnut and maple timbered lands of our country will require almost a century to be redeemed to anything like the state of thrift and elegance they might now have been in, had they been providentially managed by their original settlers, or by those who have so ruthlessly devastated them. We hope the day of burning and destroying forests and throwing away manure has nearly passed away.—Rural American.

Farm Items and Receipts.

TO DESTROY ANTS.—Get a large loose sponge, wash it clean, and sprinkle it over with sugar, and lay it where most the ants do congregate—they will soon fill every cell, and it will be to them a sell, too, for you have only to dip your sponge in hot water, to slay them by the hundred.

TO PREVENT STEERS FROM JUMPING.—To prevent steers from jumping fences clip off the eyelashes of the under lids with a pair of scissors, and the ability or disposition to jump is as effectually destroyed as Sampson's power was by the loss of his locks. The animal will not attempt a fence until the eyelids are grown.

All along the coast of New Jersey coral, composed largely of phosphatic and nitrogenous matter, is forming so rapidly as to threaten interruption to navigation in some places. Being an excellent fertilizer, it is being collected with strong forks and grappling hooks; and in many instances the deposits are so large and heavy that they cannot be lifted to the surface. By passing the entire mass through a crushing machine everything is reduced to small fragments. At the same time a liberal amount of dry muck is mingled with the coal for the purpose of absorbing the ammoniacal material, and thus retaining it until the compost can be applied to the soil. The new fertilizer promises to be a source of rich revenue to the State.

A farmer in the province of Limburg, France, has hit upon a curious way of deriving profit from horseflesh. He keeps some two hundred fowls, which are the fattest in the country, owing to the way in which he feeds them. Every week he buys two or three dead horses, which he cuts up and boils. The broth is given to his pigs, that seem to enjoy this novel soup very well, and thrive admirably upon it. The meat that has been used for the broth is hashed and given to the fowl, and what remains of the horses' carcasses is sold to the sugar refiners, who convert it into lampblack. The eggs of his fowls he sends over to England, realizing six centimes apiece for them, and the fowls go the same way when they have done laying eggs.

TO MAKE CURRANT WINE.—An exchange says: For several years we have made a ten gallon keg of currant wine, which is of as good quality as any we have tasted, and is generally so pronounced by those who have an opportunity to judge. The mode of manufacture is simple, and can easily be followed by any family having the currants and disposition to make the wine. For general information, as well as in reply to private inquiries, we give the receipt after which we make it.

The currants should be fully ripe when picked; put them into a large tub, in which they should remain a day or two; then crush with the hands, unless you have a small patent wine press, in which they should not be pressed too much, or the stems will be bruised and impart a disagreeable taste to the juice.

BLACKBERRY WINE.—There is no wine equal to the blackberry wine when properly made, either in flavor or medicinal purposes, and all persons who can conveniently do so, should manufacture enough for their own use every year, as it is invaluable in sickness as a tonic, and nothing is a better remedy for bowel diseases. We therefore give the receipt for making it, and having tried it ourselves, we speak advisedly on the subject: "Measure your berries and bruise them; to every gallon adding one quart of boiling water. Let the mixture stand twenty-four hours, stirring occasionally; then strain off the liquor into a cask, to every gallon adding two pounds of sugar; cork tight, and let it stand till the following October, and you will have wine ready for use, without further straining or boiling. This makes a most excellent and palatable wine."—Germantown Telegraph.

GIVE NATURE A LIFT.

People expect too much of Nature. They trifle with their health and their constitutions, and then are surprised that they feel sick. The pressure of constant mental or bodily labor, upon the animal powers, is tremendous. Very few systems and constitutions can bear up against this pressure unassisted. Add to this the unhealthy influences which lurk unseen in the air we breathe, the water we drink, the lassitude produced at this season by the change from the rigor of winter to the warmth of spring, and it would seem to require almost superhuman vigor to keep in perfect health without reinforcing the physical energies. But how reinforce them? Certainly not with adulterated stimulants. There is no poison in the outer air, or in the atmosphere of furnace-heated rooms, or workshops, or factories, so pernicious as those deadly burning fluids. Why use them, when HOSTETTER'S STOMACH BITTERS, a vegetable tonic without a toy, are everywhere obtainable? Nothing has ever been offered to the feeble and debilitated so harmless in its nature, so powerful in its invigorating effects. As the celebrated STOMACHIC AND ALTERATIVE, in the army and the navy, in new settlements, and in crowded cities, old and young, rich and poor, it is used as a PROTECTIVE and RESTORATIVE MEDICINE, with most gratifying results.

PINUS CANADENSIS.

A tree which is abundant in Canada, Nova Scotia, and the more northern parts of the New England States, and is also found in the elevated and mountainous regions of the Middle States, and abounds in medicinal virtues. Dr. Swett, of Boston, has prepared a medicine from the sweet inside bark of the pine tree, called POLAND'S WHITE PINE COMPOUND, which is one of rare value in all debilitated states of the kidneys. It acts like a charm in all diseases of mucous membranes, enabling them to regain their lost tone and energy. It will be found well adapted to all those diseases, where Buchu has been tried and failed. It is likewise well suited to chronic coughs, and an infallible specific for old and debilitated cases of asthma. Many persons who at first only took a bottle of this medicine, to try, afterwards came back and got a dozen, or half dozen, which effected radical cures of diseases of the bladder and kidney of years standing.

Diabetes, a disease that has been looked upon as among the incurables, is immediately relieved by it. Notice the certificate of Asa Goodnue, published some time ago.

The United States Dispensatory, speaking of the pine, says: "it is prescribed in leucorrhœa, gleet, and other diseases of the urinary passages; of the bowels, in chronic inflammation or ulceration of the bowels, in chronic catarrhal affections, and in various forms of rheumatism." It is exceedingly valuable in all gravelly affections, bloody urine, and where there is red and white sediment. It can be taken without interruption to one's usual avocations; and instead of sickening, produces a bracing, healthy power of endurance and vigor. Price, $1 per bottle; six for $5. Ask for POLAND'S WHITE PINE COMPOUND. For sale by the gross, dozen or single bottle, at DR. KEYSER'S Great Medicine Store, 140 Wood street. au20

Messrs. Burke & Barnes, Pittsburgh, Pa.

GENTLEMEN—We ship you, to-day, by railroad, a safe of your make, for a few repairs. The safe went through the disastrous fire that occurred here on the 6th of March last, burning our store and warehouse, and we are glad to inform you that the papers taken out of the safe after the fire were not harmed in the least. We did not suppose any safe, especially so small a size, could possibly stand such a fire, and when we discovered the papers all safe and sound, we were agreeably disappointed. We will give you an order for a large size safe when we get into our new store. Truly yours,

NEW ADVERTISEMENTS.

THE UNION PACIFIC RAILROAD CO.

Are now constructing a Railroad from OMAHA, NEBRASKA, westward towards the Pacific Ocean, making, with its connections, an unbroken line

ACROSS THE CONTINENT.

The Company now offer a limited amount of their

FIRST MORTGAGE BONDS,

Having thirty years to run, and bearing annual interest, payable on the first day of January and July, in the City of New York, at the rate of

SIX PER CENT. IN GOLD,

At Ninety Cents on the Dollar.

This road was completed from Omaha 305 miles west on the 1st of January, 1867, and is fully equipped, and trains are regularly running over it. The Company has now on hand sufficient iron, ties, etc., to finish the remaining portion to the eastern base of the Rocky Mountains, 212 miles, which is under contract to be done September 1st of this year, and it is expected that the entire road will be in running order from Omaha to its western connection with the Central Pacific, now being rapidly built eastward from Sacramento, Cal., during 1870.

Means of the Company.

Estimating the distance to be built by the Union Pacific to be 1,565 miles, the United States Government issues its Six per cent. Thirty-year Bonds to the Company as the road is finished at the average rate of about $28,250 per mile, amounting to $44,208,000.

The Company is also permitted to issue its own First Mortgage Bonds to an equal amount, and at the same time, which BY SPECIAL ACT OF CONGRESS ARE MADE A FIRST MORTGAGE ON THE ENTIRE LINE, the bonds of the United States being subordinate to them.

The Government makes a donation of 12,800 acres of land to the mile, amounting to 20,032,000 acres, estimated to be worth $30,000,000, making the total resources, exclusive of the capital, $118,416,000; but the full value of the lands cannot now be realized.

The authorized Capital Stock of the Company is one hundred million dollars, of which five millions have already been paid in, and of which it is not supposed that more than twenty-five millions at most will be required.

The cost of the road is estimated by competent engineers to be about one hundred million dollars, exclusive of equipment.

Prospects for Business.

The railroad connection between Omaha and the East is now complete, and the earnings of the Union Pacific on the sections already finished, for the month of May, were $251,752. These sectional earnings, as the road progresses, will much more than pay the interest on the Company's bonds, and the through business over the only line of railroad between the Atlantic and Pacific must be immense.

Value and Security of the Bonds.

The Company respectfully submit that the above statement of facts fully demonstrates the security of their Bonds, and as additional proof they would suggest that the Bonds now offered are less than ten million dollars on 517 miles of road, on which over twenty million dollars have already been expended; on 300 miles of this road the cars are now running, and the remaining 187 miles are nearly completed.

At the present rate of premium on gold these bonds pay an annual interest on the present cost of

Nine Per Cent.,

And it is believed that on the completion of the road, like the Government Bonds, they will go above par. The Company intend to sell but a limited amount at the present low rate, and retain the right to advance the price at their option.

The Pittsburgh Gazette

Speech of Hon. John Covode, of Pennsylvania.

On the return of Vice President Wade's Senatorial party from the excursion over the Pacific Railroad, in Kansas and Nebraska, a complimentary dinner was given them, June 14th, 1867, at the Southern Hotel, St. Louis. The following are the remarks of Hon. John Covode on that occasion:

MR. CHAIRMAN, LADIES AND GENTLEMEN:--It is too late for me to make a speech, to-night, and after having listened to those able Senators, and desirous as you are, no doubt, to hear from other distinguished members of the Senate here, I will not detain you long; but, as my friend from Michigan (Mr. Chandler) was calling your attention to his first visit to St. Louis, I think I had better date a little further back, and give you my first visit here. I came here in April, 1839, over twenty-eight years ago, when St. Louis only extended to Fourth street, or, if it did extend further, it was of very little consequence beyond that. I was at the bank of the river, when a man who had been murdered in a house near by was being dragged down to the river, to be thrown in. Next morning, I saw two parties go over the river to fight a duel, which was Sunday morning at that, and the same evening, nearly the whole city was out to see a horse race. I was then on my way to the upper Mississippi, and went up on the first boat that summer, in company with Col. Davenport (who was murdered the 4th day of July of the next year), to locate a proper place for a railroad to cross the Mississippi river. I selected Davenport as the place, and the cars are passing over there now. Ten years ago, I returned to the Mississippi Valley, as I have come out every few years, to spread out my comprehension. If I am at home, my notions become contracted, and I cannot believe this country is as large as it really is; so I have to come out and see it again. Ten years ago, I came out with a party to examine the Platte Valley, in view of having the Eastern railroads concentrated at some point preparatory to crossing the Rocky Mountains, having had a promise from members of Congress from the South, that they would give us a land grant, to commence the construction of these roads, if we had territorial organization in Nebraska.

Mr. Chairman, the party that went up to examine that country was furnished with transportation by you, free of charge, over the railroad and upper Missouri, and accompanied part of the way by you. We examined the Platte Valley. We crossed the country to the Republican, came down the valley of the Kaw to its mouth, through the very country--on the very line, that we have been traveling on to-day. I was among the first engaged in this business, now in the hands of enterprising capitalists, who need my assistance no more. I have aided it in every possible way. I am not confined to one road. I believe that the Kansas road has as good a right to the aid of the Government as the Union Pacific Railroad. I go for both. I believe that Kansas and Nebraska have just as good a claim, and as much need, for railroads, as New York and Pennsylvania have.

Now, gentlemen, I will give a reason that I have, for furthering your route, or insisting that it should go on, and go rapidly. The valley of the Platte is the best territory I have seen, or, as I believe, that is to be found on the continent, to lay down a railroad track in. The valley of the Kansas is also favorable, but the road bed is made at a greater expense. The Union Pacific Railroad, up the Platte valley, will be obstructed in the winter, a portion of the time with snow. Last winter the route was impassable for sometime, on account of the snow. We will have to contend with the snow on the summit of the mountains also. Bridger's Pass is liable to be snowed up for many months. This road has been built up the valley to lead farther South, and to build up the trade of Santa Fe, crosses the mountains at a lower summit, and thereby avoids many of the difficulties that they had been contending with last winter; and I tell you, gentlemen, to-night, that it is the interest of the Platte Valley, or the Union Pacific road, that this road should be built also. There should be no rivalries or competition with one another. We want to make a great thoroughfare across the continent. Suppose that two hundred millions of people in Europe, and six hundred millions in Asia, with whom we expect to trade across our continent, get to understand that we are blockaded with snow for three months of the year, can we secure their commerce? They will hesitate to put their commerce on a line, which is liable to be so obstructed. But suppose we have a road that will be in running order every day of the year, we may then reasonably expect to realize the grand idea of securing the commerce of Asia and Europe across our continent. Therefore, gentlemen, the Union Pacific Railroad will be benefitted instead of disadvantaged by the security given to the world that we have a road that will not be obstructed with snow. Gentlemen, I cannot detain you long on this question. I am in favor of aiding both roads in their purpose of completing them in the shortest possible time. Why, along the valley of the Platte, I have seen three forts blotted out already. Forts Kearney, Sedgwick, and McPherson, are all superseded by the building of the Platte Valley road and the establishment of a station at the North Platte. This road has developed a population that has utilized the Indian as far as that is concerned. In the Kansas valley I saw Fort Riley, a beautiful, well laid out, well built military post, standing on the mountains to protect the frontier. There is now no necessity for it. No use in sending troops there. Junction City has sprung up in sight of it and seems to laugh at the now useless, but costly works. The forts are no longer necessary, and there is where the Government has a great and paramount interest in the construction of these roads, that will settle the Indian question for all future time, and that, too, without expense to the Government. Many think the Government has made large donations to these Companies, but gentlemen, the Government is getting its money back again in advance of the time at which the interest is due. They have done it on both these roads. A word more to you, gentlemen, in regard to your home interest. This subject has been pretty well discussed to-night, but after all, this broad country is only one story high out here. In Pennsylvania, our country, is two or three stories. We have one man or a family with a hundred acres, and five hundred men on the lower strata after minerals. You have minerals in Missouri, enough to double the population of St. Louis in five years, and enough to double the value of every acre of land on each of the rivers at the same time. This, gentlemen, has been the experience of our mining and manufacturing districts. I talk advisedly. Gentlemen here know that I have aided in organizing and building up the most successful mining company in Pennsylvania, and we are shipping to-day over two thousand tons of coal per day, over the Pennsylvania Railroad to Philadelphia, giving it a transportation that would pay three per cent. on its cost alone. Now, gentlemen, what do you want out here? Probably some of my friends in Pennsylvania think I ought not to tell you all this, because you are bringing all your rails from our section. Perhaps they think I ought not to be posting you up on these matters. But I am very liberal. You want capital invested in making iron. You have the greatest iron mine on the continent, just within reach. You have iron enough to make rails for all the roads to the Pacific; and, while you have all that, you have some gentlemen among you who do not believe in protection. I was at Troy, a few weeks ago, to witness the Bessemer steel process. I there saw your pig iron made into steel--twenty tons per day with three tons of coal, at a cost of less than four dollars a ton, to make rails. Why gentlemen, we take your ore to Troy in the State of New York, and we make it into steel, rolling it into rails to lay steel roads in Pennsylvania, and, after a while, to send it out here to lay steel roads across the continent. You see the interest you have in these mines, if properly developed. Why, these mining men, familiar with this business, tell me that the best iron comes from the Iron Mountain. "Why," said I, "why does not St. Louis make the rails for these roads. It is the best place on the continent to do it." And yet you buy foreign rails, made by pauper labor, that enriches only your enemies. They all agreed with me on that point. Common sense will dictate this to you all. Now, gentlemen look out for this iron question. Manufacture your own steel, and the steel that is required in the Western States. We take your flour from Chicago, your wool from Iowa, and your bacon from the West. We take it down to Pennsylvania and New England. While we manufacture at the East, the raw material is taken from the West, and the goods are sent back to you for sale, and you are paying transportation both ways. Why, gentlemen, will you never learn that you have an interest in the tariff? Do you not understand this question? I say that this is a question as to whether you will manufacture your own iron and so increase your wealth to double its present amount in five years. Then, why send men to Congress, to vote against protecting American industry.

Excuse me, gentlemen; it is growing late, and I will detain you no longer.

Whereabouts of Former Pittsburghers--A Friendly Letter from the West.

Correspondence of the Pittsburgh Gazette.

ST. PAUL, MINN., July 18, 1867.

EDITORS PITTSBURGH GAZETTE:--The time is nigh at hand when, per force, I must remit a $2 Treasury note, or suffer the evil of having my "weekly" stopped. Now, of the two evils the last would be insufferable, and consequently, Messrs. Editors, I get over the first as soon as possible--and hand the amount. Have you ever been from home, and after a long absence, and by mere chance, had your week's washing sent into you with the laundress' compliments, and her little bill, all done up neatly in an old copy of the paper you used to swear by when at home? If so, do you recollect with what a perfect nonchalance you forgot everything, even to the payment of "that little bill," and with what gusto you devoured everything printed in that newspaper, including all the advertisements! If you have, you can readily understand what pleasure I feel, in common with my family, when your pages are opened to our view. Three of us, my boys and self, are Pittsburghers, I, by long adoption, they, by right of birth, and though self-exiled for over eleven years, I cannot forget that in Pittsburgh I married; that there my children were born, and that to this day very warm and very dear friends still reside there. My pleasantest recollections all center there, and I long--oh, how I long!--to return and be one of its citizens again; but it may not be.

To undertake to furnish you news from this section, in these days of Telegraphs and Railroads, would be as wise as to ship coals to New Castle or Pittsburgh, besides it would imply that you were negligent of your duties as journalists and caterers to the public; consequently, I will confine myself to mentioning a few names, that perhaps will be recognized by some of your readers.

We have an iron firm, named Nicols, Dean & Co., all Pittsburghers. Mr. Nicols once occupied a ware house on Wood street. Mr. Dean, I believe, was once connected with McFadden's jewelry store on Market street. The silent member of the "Co." is Captain Peter Burky, of canal packet reputation, in days "Lang Syne." A more honorable firm does not exist in the Northwest. Then we have another iron firm, named Braden & Brother, almost Pittsburgh men, hailing from Brownsville, or some place near, up the Monongahela river, equally reliable. We have Mark Costello, an old chip, now Boss Carpenter. Your readers will remember Kennedy T. Friend, of the firm of Patrick & Friend, Bankers, who died last fall from cholera. Mrs. Friend and daughters are settled here, one of the latter is now a Mrs. Goodrich, another Mrs. Bork Lot, clerk of the city--a third is Mrs. James Holmes, who so husband and family now reside on the extreme frontier, engaged, I believe, in fur dealing.

Enoch Holmes, late of Wood street, (seed and agricultural store,) has been for years and is now at Carver, a town some sixty miles up the Minnesota River, getting rich, if not so already. Away up the Minnesota River, above the town of La Leur, dwells our old friend and public benefactor, Brindenthal, of omnibus memory in Pittsburgh, and still farther up lives our old acquaintance Mr. Virtue, at a town named Clearland, started by ex-Sheriff Forsythe, who died some years ago. But I will forbear enumerating, lest I become tedious. Go where you will in this State, Pennsylvanians and Pittsburghers are met, and need I say that all are good citizens?

Minnesota is a good enough State to live in, if one is bound to live near sun set; but with the Israelites of old, I hanker after the flesh pots of old Pitt--were I at liberty, Pennsylvania should be my home--and figuratively speaking, I would rather hang in Pennsylvania (say back of the county jail) than die a natural death here.

Rather strong, I hear you say; yes, rather, but a most true.

Should you not consider me an unmitigated bore "I'll take my pen in hand" semi-occasionally. Yours,

JOSEPH LEWIS.

Thrown From a Horse.

On Friday evening, Miss Julia D'Haven, was thrown from a horse and had her hand severely hurt, but fortunately received no further injuries. The horse, it appears, is a vicious one and was taken in hands by Miss D'Haven, who is a fine equestrienne, for the purpose of breaking him of some of his vicious habits, and on this occasion rode out the Butler road. On turning to come back the horse refused to obey, when, in attempting to force him, he fell, throwing the lady off, and in attempting to get up he stepped on her hand, inflicting a severe injury. She was not to be outdone so easily, and notwithstanding her injured hand, remounted the horse and rode him home.

We are indebted to Mr. W. A. Gildenfenny, No. 45 Fifth street, for a copy of Godey's Lady's Book for August.

SPECIAL NOTICES.

☞SECOND BANKERS' AND MERCHANTS' GRAND PRESENTATION ENTERTAINMENT, will most positively take place at IRVING HALL, on the evening of July 24th, 1867. The largest, greatest and most successful enterprise ever inaugurated in the world. A Present with every ticket.

The First Grand Concert was given on July 4th. It was a grand success. The mammoth Hall was filled with the elite of the city. The audience appointed a committee of nine of the leading Bankers and Merchants, to examine the corresponding numbers to the tickets and the Register Books, to see that all is correct before making the grand distribution of prizes at the last Concert, on the 24th of July.

A gift with every ticket. The Grand Distribution of presents will be conducted on the Mutual Benefit principle. A pro-rata Distribution of Profits to Ticket holders. Capital, $1,287,148. Tickets, $1 each. A present with every ticket.

A reference to the number of presents and the general plan of distribution, given below, will convince the most skeptical of the great advantages which will accrue to all who participate in the enterprise; and the commercial and financial standing of the company, and the managers and bankers thereof, will, they hope, prove a sufficient guarantee of the fairness and impartiality with which everything in connection with it will be conducted, and that the interests of ticket holders will be most scrupulously watched over and guarded. In fact it is the desire of the managers to conduct every transaction for the mutual benefit of whoever shall purchase a ticket, and scrupulously to avoid any and everything which could in the slightest degree diminish the profits which are likely to accrue to all who invest. List of Presents: Cash--One cash present at $75,000; one cash present at $50,000; one cash present at $25,000; two cash presents at $10,000; three cash presents at $5,000; four cash presents at $3,000; five cash presents at $1,000; eight cash presents at $1,000; fourteen cash presents at $500; twenty cash presents at $300; twenty-five cash presents at $200; forty cash presents at $100; seventy-five cash presents at $50; one hundred and forty cash presents at $25; one hundred and fifty cash presents at $20; one hundred and seventy-five cash presents at $10; two hundred cash presents at $--; [illegible] cash presents, amounting to $250,000. FINANCE AND TRADE.

OFFICE OF THE PITTSBURGH GAZETTE, MONDAY, July 22, 1867.

The New York stock quotations to-day, as received by Mr. P. R. Mertz, were as follows: Gold, 139¾; Eighty-one bonds, 110¾; Five Twenties, 1862, 111½; Five Twenties, 1864 109¼; Five Twenties, 1865, 109¾; Consols, 108¾; Seven Thirties, 108@107¾; Ten Forties, 102¾. Stocks—Erie Railroad, 71¾; Cleveland & Pittsburgh, 91¼; Chicago and Rock Island, 101¾; Chicago and Northwestern, 46¾; Chicago and Northwestern preferred 71¾; Fort Wayne Railroad, 102¾; Michigan Southern Railroad, 80¾; New York Central, 108¾; Reading, 106¾. Mining shares—Corydon, 1,65; Quartz Hill, 2,05; Gregory, 6,70; Smith & Paramalee, 5,65.

On war rumors from Europe between France and Prussia, received Saturday evening, gold advanced to 140, and remained firm at from 139¾@139¾. The market for Government bonds opened weak, but became strong after the first board, and closed with an advance of ¼ per cent through the entire list, excepting Eighty one's and Five Twenties of 1862, which have declined but little during the last few days. The demand for bonds however is light, and comes principally from speculators and brokers dealing especially in that class of securities. Railroad shares have considerably advanced, and there was a heavy business done in North Western, Michigan Southern, New York Central and Erie. The feeling of the street is decidedly "bullish," and the abundance of money on call is very encouraging for purchasers for a rise.

Mining shares are not quite so firm as in the forepart of last week, but the market is well sustained. Less stocks are offered in our city, either Bank, Insurance or other corporation stocks, but low priced stocks having a dividend in view are eagerly taken up at current quotations.

Oil shares are improving, and quite in demand at the former quotations, but holders are very sanguine. The "Oil Basin" and "Allegheny & Pittsburgh" Companies have each declared a dividend of one per cent.

The following statement exhibits the business of the Pittsburgh Clearing House, for the week ending Saturday, July 20th:

We extract the following from the New York Tribune of Saturday:

Capital is abundant, but lenders are not disposed to make long engagements until the policy of the Treasury in regard to the maturing compound notes is settled. Should the Secretary pay them, as he is pledged to do by all the public and private declarations, higher rates of interest will be charged, to enable banks to maintain reasonable dividends and meet onerous taxation. The first movement of the city banks will probably be discontinuing the payment of interest on deposits, a policy which keeps in this city large sums of money, the property of the interior, and loaned to speculators on call. Interest being stopped, country bank balances will naturally be reduced, and the money used at home, instead of remaining in New York, "to take the chances." The stoppage of the interest on $80,000,000 of present bank reserve inflicts a loss upon bankers which they will naturally seek to regain by adding to the rates of interest and exchange, a process not in the interest of borrowers. It is urged that Mr. McCulloch will not pay the compounds as they mature because, in his opinion, it will distress expanded banks, and cripple gamblers in gold, grain and stocks. This is no excuse for his failing to pay off the maturing currency debt by sales of bonds at their present high prices when his surplus income fails to keep him in funds. The way is clear to make a sharp permanent contraction, and he is bound by repeated declarations to make it, and show the people that the Treasury is moving toward specie, and that their only safety is in paying their debts and following the example of the Treasury. The August seven-thirties and the compounds should be paid or furnished into long stock in spite of the protests of debtors, to whom no extension is long enough, and who never care to see a paper dollar equal coin again. As soon as the pressure caused by funding and paying the August seven thirties passes, and it would be short in duration, a renewed demand for 5-20s in exchange for June and July 7-30s would follow, and long before they mature they can all be funded, and the Treasury reach the point when it can announce its readiness to pay gold in New York for plain legal-tenders. With the present crop prospects throughout the Union the people are able to consume imported and domestic products enough to yield revenue equal to the annual interest upon the debt and the present large ordinary expenses. All that is now wanted to get back to specie in 1868 is a Secretary brave enough to steer the Treasury into port, and not trust to drifting home.

—The following suggestions from the New York Bank Note Reporter will be found of interest now, and for quite a long period to come:

WANTED—ELASTICITY IN THE CURRENCY.

Since the Government has taken the entire control of the currency, it seems to be a necessity that some financial measure be adopted that will give elasticity to it; for during some portions of the year much more currency is wanted than at other seasons. It is already predicted that in October and November the money markets will be extremely tight, from the fact that more money will be wanted to move the produce than can be furnished by the banks.

* * * * *

It is evident that when the country calls for currency in large amounts, the banks will call in their loans, or "contract." The logical result is that the banks are forced into a contraction when money is wanted, and they are at times induced, by their easy position, to expand when money is not needed. It is our design to work up a financial measure to obviate, if possible—to ameliorate, at least—this bank kink, and bad kink, in our financial machinery. To be of solid service, our financial measure should operate as a check on expansions, as well as a brake on contractions; and at the same time give the country an enlarged volume of currency when business requires it, and a diminished volume at other times, and incidentally to ward off any great revulsion in the price of Government bonds in a panic. These we claim to be the features of our proposed financial measure. The necessity of elasticity will be obvious in due time, probably before New Year's. Our measure is this: The Treasury to have ready, after being authorized by Congress, any required amount of greenback currency; and the Assistant Treasurers in New York, Boston, and Philadelphia to be furnished with it, to loan on call at seven per cent. interest, taking Government bonds as collateral security at 15 per cent. under their market value. This is all; nevertheless it is a great measure. It is not desirable that the Treasury become the loaner of money, except on emergencies; we, therefore, have proposed a high rate of interest and a strong margin. No one will borrow on these terms, except the money market is very bad, and the loans will be paid off as soon as the market is slightly easy; still there will be times, we think, when from $50,000,000 to $100,000,000 will be wanted. This measure will checkmate the gamblers in stocks, who sometimes hoard greenbacks in order to intensify a tight money market. Until recently the currency has had a power of expanding and contracting. Take, for instance, the Honesdale Bank of Pennsylvania, which, with a capital of $100,000, occasionally issued $800,000 of currency principally on the drafts of the Delaware and Hudson Coal and Canal Company. The New England banks were very elastic in their currency movements often furnishing millions for 30, 60, or 90 days, to the west, with which to move the crops. None of this elasticity is available for the National system.

PITTSBURGH MARKETS.

OFFICE OF THE PITTSBURGH GAZETTE, MONDAY, July 22, 1866.

The produce markets were not very active to-day, and it is not reasonable to expect any immediate improvement at this season of the year. There is a continued fair local demand for most of the leading articles of trade, but transactions are light and unimportant, while prices, generally, are without change.

GRAIN—There are some arrivals of new Wheat reported, but, as yet, but few sales have been effected, and, consequently, there are no established quotations. Oats scarce, but the demand seems to be subsiding a little, while prices are unchanged; small sales at 87@90c. Corn is selling in store at $1@1,05. Rye is scarce, but there does not seem to be much inquiry; we quote nominally at $1,25@1,30. No movement in Barley.

FLOUR—The demand seems to keep pace with the supply, and while the market is steady and moderately active, prices are well sustained. Regular sales in store at $11 50@12 for Spring Wheat; $12@12,50 for Winter Wheat; and $16,00@17,00 for fancy brands. Rye Flour is quiet and unchanged.

PROVISIONS—The demand for Bacon is firm and prices steadily tending upward. We now quote at 12@12½c for Shoulders; 14@15c for Ribbed and Clear Sides, and 21@22c for Sugar Cured Hams. Dried Beef may be quoted at 24@25c. Lard at 13@13½c, and Mess Pork at $23,50@24.

POTATOES—Scarce, firm and in demand. Sales of old at $1@1,10 per bush, and new $4,50 per barrel.

GREEN APPLES—The demand keeps ahead of the supply, and the market is firm, with regular sales at $4 to $5 per bbl, according to quality.

BUTTER—Is dull, though the arrivals are light. Prime fresh may be quoted at 15@16c, while packed ranges from 8@12c, as to quality and condition.

EGGS—Steady but unchanged, the demand being about equal to the supply; fresh packed are selling at 22c.

OIL—Lard Oil is firm and unchanged—85c for No. 2, and $1,07 for No. 1.

CHEESE—Is dull and in good supply but unchanged; sales at 13@16c, according to quality.

MILL FEED—Quiet and unchanged—sales at $1,65 for Bran; $2 for Shorts, and $2,25 for Middlings.

PITTSBURGH PETROLEUM MARKET.

OFFICE OF THE PITTSBURGH GAZETTE, MONDAY, July 22, 1866.

CRUDE—There was a moderate business done in Crude to-day, the sales, in the aggregate, being larger than on Saturday, though insignificant compared with any other day last week excepting Saturday. The market is quiet and a little weak, and notwithstanding the excitement has pretty well subsided, prices have undergone but little change, though, if anything, the tendency is downward, and, apparently, there are more sellers than buyers. Sale of 1500 bbls, first water, at 11c; 1000 do at 11c, and 3000, 1000 and 1500, on spot, all at 12¼c. It was reported in the afternoon that there were offers to sell on "first water," at 11¾, and it was hinted that the party who sold at 11c for same delivery had been "picked up." Be this all as it may, there is no disputing the fact that the market is quiet and a little weak.

REFINED—The refined market, also, was again quiet to-day though steady, and so far as we could learn, there was no disposition manifested to make concessions in order to effect sales. There was but a single operation reported, 1000 bbls 250 each month from September to December, at 32, delivered in Philadelphia. July appears to be steady at 31; August at 33, that is for all the month, buyer's option; and September is quoted at 30¾@31c. For all the year 1867, buyer's option, the last sale was at 35, and it is possible this figure might still be realized, though we cannot speak positively on this point.

RIVER NEWS.

There was an important conclave in Dubuque the other day. The big guns of two packet companies came together in consultation, and had a long talk. Those present were: Capt. Wm. F. Davidson, President of the N. W. U. P. C.; P. S. Davidson, superintendent of the same; T. B. Rhodes, president of the N. L. P. Co.; Capt. Gray, vice president, and Capt. Tom Buford, superintendent of the same, together with Messrs. B. H. Campbell and D. Humkins, of Galena, stockholders. The Dubuque Times refers to the opposition and competition carried on during the season, and gives the following interesting information:

"We are informed that Capt. Davidson, of the Northwestern Union line would like to have full swing at the river trade between Dubuque and St. Paul, the Northern Line to have the trade between Dubuque and St. Louis—not objecting to two boats a week above the point of the latter line, so that their contract in regard to the railroad elevators below us may be carried out. An agreement was hardly arrived at. May be it will be to-day. The question is a rather important one. It is more than likely if some basis of agreement is not arrived at that the Northwestern Union Company will put a daily line of boats on the river, between St. Louis, Dubuque and St. Paul, and compete for the business of the route. 'When Greek meets Greek then comes the tug of war.' Harvest is approaching. The cream of the river business for the season of '67 is to come yet."

We do not believe the Northern line will make the concessions asked. If they yield a part it is very probable they would be asked for more. They know Davidson, and will be careful. Friends of river navigation and St. Louis interests will not desire any arrangements made to cripple the usefulness of the Northern packet line, for the benefit of scheming railroad men, and enemies of St. Louis.—St. Louis Democrat.

All the Dubuque papers of Wednesday have to say as to the conference of rival packet companies held in that town, is as follows: "The convention of steamboatmen ended yesterday, and they departed for their homes. The following article states the result accomplished which is not very definite: 'The Northwestern Union Packet Company and the Northern Line Packet Company have made arrangements to have their boats leave at different hours, so as to avoid racing, and their differences have been settled by mutual agreement. Plenty of boats will be kept in service to supply all the demands of commerce.'"

STEAMBOAT TRANSFERS AT ST. LOUIS.—Late steamboat transfers here are: Bridgeport by Wm. Aiken to Wm. Pickering, George H. Bannon and Wm. Riley, each one-third for $3000. Nile, July 8th, W. B. Haslet to Jas. F. Luker, one eighth. Chas. E. Flack, one sixteenth, rate of $40,000. The purchasers are commander and clerk of the boat. They receive the above proportion of the profits of the late mountain trip, which we presume reduces the cost of their interest about one half. Good thing for these young men, but they deserve good fortune. Ben. McCulloch, S. M. Breckenridge sold to Pelmers for $1200; Seimers sold to James Ball for $1375. She is a diminutive side-wheeler, 75 tons burden, and goes up Mississippi to Clarksville to ply in a very short trade. Sam Clark—J H. Green and Chas. E. Hall, of Keokuk, Iowa, sold to Nelson J. Railson of Chicago, and Geo. Nicholson, of Ottawa Ill., for $5000.

The St. Louis Democrat is responsible for the following: The fastest steamer has not yet been built. Captain T. P., one of the oldest and most enterprising commanders on the Mississippi, contemplates having built, the coming fall and winter, a steamer of the following dimensions: 300 feet long, at least; corresponding beam; to have eight boilers; cylinders 34 inches diameter, 10 feet stroke. He has also decided on her name, which will be Fire Fly. Capt. T. P. intends to run this boat between Cairo and New Orleans, making a round trip every week, and he has no doubt whatever of being able to do it. The boat will not be built at Louisville, but below that point on the Ohio, and will, of course, be claimed by the Louisville Blower as a Louisville institution all over.

CAPE MAY.
CAPE ISLAND.

Since the close of 1866 much enterprise has been displayed at this celebrated sea-shore resort. New and magnificent cottages have been erected; the Hotels have been remodeled; a fine park, with a well made one mile drive, has been inaugurated; and in all the essentials of a popular summer resort, a spirit of improvement is largely manifested.

The geographical position of Cape Island is in itself a popular feature, when properly understood—Situated at the extreme southern portion of the State, and occupying a neck of land at the confluence of the Delaware Bay with the Atlantic Ocean, it becomes entirely surrounded by salt water, hence favored by continual breezes from the sea.

The bluff furnishes a beautiful view of the Ocean, Delaware Bay, and picturesque back country, taking in Cape Henlopen distinctly at a distance of sixteen miles. The beach is acknowledged to surpass any other point upon the Atlantic coast, being of a smooth, compact sand which declines so gently to the surf that even a child can bathe with security.

Added to these attractions is the fact that the effect of the Gulf stream upon this point renders the water comparatively warm—a point not to be overlooked by persons seeking health in ocean bathing.

The distance from Philadelphia to Cape Island is 81 miles by rail, and about the same distance by steamer down the Bay, and by either route the facilities for travel promise to be of the most satisfactory character. The Island has Hotel and Boarding-house accommodations for about ten thousand persons. The leading Hotels are the Columbia House, with GEORGE J. BOLTON as proprietor; Congress Hall, with J. F. CAKE as proprietor, and United States, with WEST & MILLER as proprietors, all under the management of gentlemen who have well established reputations as hotel men.

MEDICAL.

CONSUMPTION!

It would take a man a lifetime to read the treatises that have been written upon this important subject, and if a sick man were to attempt it he would make himself worse by the reading, and die before he got half through. The symptoms of the disease are, hacking cough, expectoration of matter or pus, pain in one or both lungs, chilliness, burning in the palms of the hands and soles of the feet, exhausting day or night sweats, hectic fever, wasting of flesh or marasmus, sometimes expectoration of blood. These are the usual outward symptoms, apparent not only to the observing physician, but to the patient's friends. There are, however, more important symptoms than these, which are only made manifest by auscultation and percussion, terms which mean, in a medical sense, thumping and listening, and they are employed outwardly in order to ascertain what is going on inside of the cavity of the chest. The signs or symptoms elicited in this way are almost surely demonstrate the true and exact condition of the respiratory organs. A perfect auscultator can not fail in ascertaining whether the Lungs are acting naturally or not. Hence it is the best method of examining the lungs. Their actual condition once discovered, the appropriate treatment is more rapidly arrived at, and every diseased part more completely under the influence of appropriate remedies. We have long been of the opinion that consumption or decay, or wasting of the bodily strength, was dependent on a depraved state of the blood, which carries, in its course, tuberculous matter, and deposits it in the lungs, or elsewhere in the body, just as calculi or stone is deposited in the bladder, a small particle of which attracts other particles, until it becomes of such offense to the natural functions as to bring on inflammatory action, which action, if it could, would carry it out of the system, and which could have been easily done in the beginning of such disease. Dr. KEYSER'S PECTORAL SYRUP is a complete and perfect cure in the forming stage of lung disease. It acts on the very principle we have stated above, by enabling the securing or carrying off organs to do a double share of work Waste and repair are easily comprehended, if the worn out material be carried off, and renewing material of a proper character, the must be health and ease, the contrary of sickness and dis-ease. In many cases of consumption which have become settled, Dr. Keyser's Pectoral Syrup fails to cure, although it will do good in nearly all. He prepares a medicine called LUNG CURE or PULMONARY RESTORATIVE, which is a great tonic, and strengthens and restores the parts to be renewed, while it dissolves and carries out from the body those particles of worn out or extraneous matter, which only tend to clog or destroy it, by hindering the renewing material being deposited in proper place.

PULMONARY CONSUMPTION, RESULTING FROM PLEURISY, CURED.

Statement of George Ford, carpenter, of No. 16 Sampson street, Allegheny City:

I took a violent attack of pleurisy, in May, 1866, which left me with a cough lasting all summer, wearing away my strength and gradually undermining my health. During this attack pleurisy I had several physicians of the highest reputation in the city. After I had partially recovered from the pleurisy, I was advised to go into the country, which I did, and when there a called in a doctor, who told me my left lung was affected, and that if something were not done soon I would die of CONSUMPTION. I lingered on from this time until about the middle of June, my cough and lung disease gradually growing worse, and I weaker every day, and almost despairing of ever getting well. In this state of despondency, and knowing the general belief of the incurability of Consumption, and having heard of cures made by DR. KEYSER, and seeing his advertisement in the newspapers, I was induced in October last to call on the Doctor at his office, 120 Penn street, and had him examine my lungs with his "LUNG SOUND." He told me the upper lobe of my left lung was very much diseased, but he thought with great care and the perseverance in the use of his medicine, I would get well. At the time I called on Dr. Keyser my pulse was over one hundred and thirty beats in a minute, and I was generally prostrated, and had to cough night and day. I commenced the Doctor's treatment in October, with a feeble, broken constitution, and continued it faithfully until the present time. The Doctor's medicines helped me from the very start, and I could gradually feel myself getting stronger, and my cough and expectoration lessening. I have gained greatly in flesh, and consider myself well; all the rattling of my lung has ceased, and my general health is in every way good. All my relatives and friends know of the advanced stage of my disease and my extraordinary recovery. One of the medicines given me by Dr. Keyser was a medicine called LUNG CURE, which I took in connection with the other treatment.
GEORGE FORD.
PITTSBURGH, March 25, 1867.

ANOTHER CURE OF CONSUMPTION.

STATEMENT OF JOHN G. WIGHAM, OF TURTLE CREEK, ALLEGHENY COUNTY.

I was discharged from the United States army January, 1866, on account of a wound in the head, from a shell, and a disease which the army physicians pronounced CONSUMPTION. I had a terrible cough and fell away in strength and flesh and was unable to do anything. Shortly after my return from the army, I made application to a physician of my neighborhood and, afterwards, to another in Pittsburgh of high reputation, whose remedies I used faithfully for five months, without any benefit whatever, but rather grew worse, and wasted in flesh and strength every day. In August, 1866, my mother took me to DOCTOR KEYSER, of 120 Penn street, whose skill in such cases like mine had been highly spoken of and put myself under his treatment. he Doctor examined my lungs very carefully with his LUNG SOUND, and told me that my left lung was badly diseased at the upper part, but if I was careful he thought he could cure me by following his directions closely, which I did from that day to this. I gradually improved under Dr. Keyser's medicines from the first week I commenced to take them, and my general health has improved, and my chest, where it was sunken away, and where it pained me, has become full and strong and free from pain. I can now do a full day's work, and take great pleasure in giving my testimony in favor of Dr. Keyser's treatment and medicines.
JOHN G. WIGHAM,
Turtle Creek.
PITTSBURGH, April 11th, 1867.

A case of five years' standing cured by DR. KEYSER'S PECTORAL SYRUP:

DR. KEYSER:—My wife has been afflicted with a cough and difficulty of breathing for five or six years, which, for several years back, had gradually increased in violence. The complaint has been hereditary, and she had been treated by several physicians without any relief. In this state of her case I procured some of your PECTORAL COUGH SYRUP. I bought the first time a fifty cent bottle, which relieved her very much; I then called and got a dollar bottle, which cured her entirely, and she has now no trace of the former disease, except weakness. I would also state that I used the medicine myself to a cold and cough. The medicine cured me by taking one dose. I express my entire satisfaction with the medicine, and you are at liberty to publish this if you desire to do so.
WM. WILSON,
Alderman, Fifth Ward.

Our son, JAMES PAINTER, some three years of age was afflicted with consumption of the lungs, for which he was discharged from the army. He was examined by four army physicians, who all agreed that he must die with the disease. We brought him to Dr. KEYSER, 140 Wood street, (now 120 Penn street,) who, after sounding his lungs, commenced to treat him, and cured him sound and well. He is now well and has been so for the past three years. Others afflicted in like manner can likewise be cured.
